Reference Librarians Bombarded Daily With Hard-to-Answer Queries

Warren Netz

The Odd and The Unusual

By BILL HURSCHMANN
Staff Writer

"We certainly have had some dillies," says Ann Ramburg, San Bruno reference librarian, in what perhaps is the most apt statement on odd and unusual questions fielded daily by reference librarians.

Librarians throughout all of San Mateo County are bombarded constantly with questions that can't be answered off the top of the head. Some of them, in fact, cannot be answered at all.

BUT LIBRARIANS aren't disturbed or deterred by the unusual question. It becomes a challenge, often taking long hours of research, a seemingly never-ending series of telephone calls and correspondence and often resulting in a simple "We don't know."

If there is an answer, however, one can be sure the library system in San Mateo County will find the answer.

A poll of librarians throughout the county revealed some interesting questions, and in some cases some interesting answers to the out-of-the-ordinary inquiry. Often, however, librarians could not remember questions asked long ago.

Starting in the northern end of the county and working south, here are some of the odd and unusual:

FROM SAM CHANDLER, Daly City librarian:

"Does an animal know the difference in the sex of a human and if so, how do they know? That's one we still don't have an answer to."

"Years ago we had a situation where an IRS collector had gone to a farm to inspect an injured animal. The farmer claimed he was a steer, but the IRS said the farmer didn't intend to make him a steer and therefore he was a bull. We had both lawyers here in the library researching that one."

"And every year we get questions like 'How many illegitimate children did Thomas Jefferson have?' and 'How do you read an Aztec calendar?' and 'Who invented rubber heels for shoes?'"

Says Chandler: "Usually there's an answer to a question and we'll find it before we're through. Reference librarians are very dedicated people and they spend a lifetime answering these kinds of questions."

FROM MRS. RAMBURG:

"A doctor wanted to know how many people admitted to hospitals for diseases not related to heart trouble actually had a heart disease. We were able to find that out."

"What is the total consumption, in gallons, of cooking oil used in businesses in the entire Bay Area? That took a lot of research, but we came up with it."

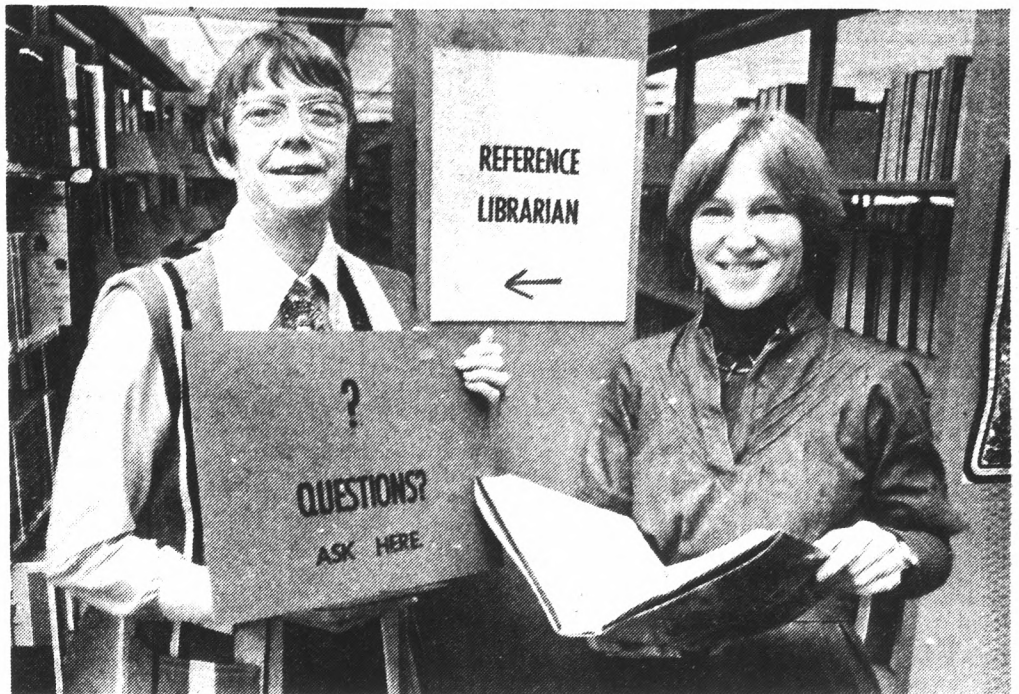

"Can an airline captain in the United States marry people the way a captain of a ship can? No."

Mrs. Ramburg says the San Bruno library receives about 1,000 reference calls a month. "Some are easy, some hard. And often it is a matter of steering people in the right direction."

FROM WARREN NETZ, Millbrae reference librarian:

"Someone wanted to know the procedure for disposing of a dead body in the state of New Jersey. They wouldn't tell us why, but we were able to find out. It was rather complicated."

"One day we received a call from the city jail. A man said he wanted to know how to post bail. His problem was that he needed the money to get out of jail, but couldn't get out of jail without raising the money. We —See UNUSUAL, Page Two

D.C. Condo Surge

Acting City Planner Expects Even More Proposals

By NANCY STANCILL

Despite some opposition from residents, condominium development proposals are springing up like mushrooms in Daly City.

The Daly City Planning Commission two months ago approved an 80-unit condominium project and will consider two more condominium development proposals at a March 14 meeting.

Thomas Miller, Daly City's acting city planner, believes that more proposals will follow.

"The type of development is necessitated by the type of sites we have left in the city," he said. "The sites, sloping and more difficult to develop, don't lend themselves to traditional single-family subdivisions."

In the past, condominium developments have offered a less expensive type of property ownership, but Miller said that does not seem to be the case in Daly City.

He pointed out that most of the recent proposals for development have been for units that range in price "from $80,000 to $110,000."

Miller said he believes that earlier problems associated with condominium development have been resolved, such as the legal questions of setting up such developments.

"Condominiums seem to be winning more acceptance as an alternative living style," Miller said.

"People argue that condominiums are more reflective of today's lifestyles, that they are suited to people who don't have time to mow lawns," he said.

However, Miller does not expect the arguments in favor of condominiums to sway homeowners who oppose the developments in their single-family neighborhoods.

The Cypress Point condominium project (an 80-unit development approved in December) faced some questions from residents who were concerned about the steep slope, 8.7-acre site on Gellert Boulevard.

Residents of the Serramonte area expressed fears that traffic congestion and flooding of the slope area would cause problems with the development.

However, the project won approval and the developer, the Innisfree Companies, is preparing detailed building plans for the start of construction.

A second condominium project, which will be discussed at the March 14 Planning Commission session, also has been the focus of some concern by Serramonte residents.

The project, for a 150-unit development south of Hickey Boulevard between Interstate 280 and Serravista Avenue, has raised similar concerns about traffic, noise and appearance.

The development, called Montevista, has generated a petition from Serramonte residents who oppose it. It is proposed by SKM Properties Co., Colma.

Miller said the Planning Commission's first look at the development generated some questions about its size and other possible objections that have obliged the developer to "go back to the drawing board" before the March meeting.

Discussion on the development, originally scheduled for February, was postponed until March while the developer evaluates whether changes in the project would keep it economically feasible.

Miller said the third condominium project in recent

JUHSD Change Urged

When Jefferson Union High School District's Deputy Superintendent Dr. Harold Tonini retires June 30, the job of deputy superintendent also may leave the district.

District Superintendent Dr. Floyd Gonella presented a proposal to the JUHSD Board of Trustees Tuesday to "eliminate the position of deputy superintendent and create two major district divisions."

If the board decides to accept Gonella's recommendation, Assistant Superintendent for Education Ernest Ribera will become associate superintendent in charge of educational programs.

Dr. Robert Watt, now assistant superintendent for business and operations, would be named associate superintendent for administration and operations.

Gonella said he would recommend no increase in salaries.

The superintendent said the change would result in Watt's performing "125 percent of what Tonini is doing now."

He explained that in addition to handling Tonini's personnel functions, Watt also would oversee about 25 percent of the business and operations functions.

The other 75 percent of more routine business functions would be handled by a business manager that Gonella proposed the district should hire.

He said the hiring of a

Three Residents Seek Colma Treasurer Post

By NANCY STANCILL

Three longtime Colma residents are competing for the post of city treasurer.

Seeking election March 7 to the treasurer's position are Julia B. Taylor, Joseph G. Messina and Wallace H. Honeywell.

The city treasurer is paid $150 per month for the part-time work, which consists of handling the city's investments, depositing monies and ensuring that city bills are paid.

The treasurer's post became vacant when Mario Artau resigned from the job in December. Artau had moved to Daly City.

MRS. TAYLOR was the first to announce her interest in the position. She appeared before the council to request an interim appointment before the March election. The council decided to keep the post open.

Mrs. Taylor was born in San Francisco, but has spent "all but one year" of her life in Colma, she said. She is 56.

Mrs. Taylor's mother, Irene Frahm, is Colma's oldest living resident at 86. The candidate's late husband, Earl Taylor, was a councilman and mayor of the town for 32 years.

Mrs. Taylor, with her late husband, founded and still operates Pets Rest Cemetery on Hillside Boulevard. She lives at 1905 Hillside Blvd.

The candidate is an accounts receivable cashier at Cypress Lawn Cemetery. She said the treasurer's position would be "right up my alley" in terms of work experience.

Mrs. Taylor said she wants to become more involved in the small town's activities. She said she hopes to generate city-sponsored activities for senior citizens and other groups.

"We're a dead town," she said of the small cemetery city. "But we shouldn't be dead as far as the live people are concerned."

LIKE MRS. TAYLOR, candidate Joseph G. Messina is seeking public office for the first time. Messina lists his address as Rt. 1, Box 227, Colma.

Messina, 66, is a native of the North Beach area of San Francisco. He moved to Colma in 1939. Messina is a maintenance employee at Woodlawn Memorial Park in Colma.

He pointed out that previous business experience, operating two restaurants

Colma Cremation of Poor?

By RICK SULLIVAN

San Mateo may become one of the only counties in the state to order the cremation of the remains of county indigents, abandoning a 40-year practice of paying for modest "potter's field" burials at a Colma cemetery.

Facing a 145 percent increase in burial costs this year, the Board of Supervisors has asked Coroner Paul Jensen to determine if it is legally and economically feasible to cremate rather than bury those who die without enough money to pay for funeral and interment expenses.

GRAVES DIMINISH

Cemetery chief Paul Howe examines the dwindling space left at Cypress Lawn Cemetery to bury indigents in San Mateo County. Cremation has been suggested.

"My first reaction," commented Jensen, "is that we may face a sticky legal problem. If the supervisors decide to order cremations I would ask that they enact an ordinance allowing me to sign cremation certificates."

For the past 40 years, Colma cemeteries have provided burial space for the deceased indigent, charging the county only $45 for opening and closing graves.

The cemeteries traditionally have reserved perimeter acreage for this purpose. The land is grass-covered, but otherwise unadorned by grave-stones or other memorials. Gravesites are identified only by numbers.

In the last several years, however, all Colma cemeteries except Cypress Lawn Memorial Park have dropped out of the charity burial business citing diminishing grave space and increasing costs.

And this year Cypress Lawn advised the county that it would only handle the county cases if grave opening and closing charges were increased to $210. Cemetery Superintendent Paul Howe said even that amount would not cover the cost of burial.

"We've been charging the county a $45 fee for I guess the last 30 years," commented Howe. "We just felt that an increase was justified. There is a responsibility, we think, to provide a proper grave for those who cannot afford to purchase one, but we have to at least come close to meeting our costs. Cemetery land is becoming very expensive these days."

"How do you repair and rewire a juke box?"

"What is the temperature at which popcorn pops? When it contains about 13.5 percent moisture and is heated to about 400 degrees Fahrenheit."

"What do Charles Percy, Kevin White and Richard Nixon have in common? They all ran for governor of a state and lost the election."

"When was the law prohibiting the sale of liquor on Election Day repealed? 1969."

And one question that went unanswered: "What were the names of all of Queen Victoria's children?"

FROM TAI IKE and March Boucher, San Carlos reference librarians:

"At a party one evening, after a lot of frivolous suggestions, somebody remarked 'It boggles the mind,' and we decided that was it: a boggle of crocodiles. The research biologist at the Everglades National Park, Florida, said, 'To the best of our knowledge, no such term has been used for crocodiles, probably because even where crocodiles occur in large numbers, and where many may be seen together on a river bank, these animals react independently to a stimulus and exhibit no colonial behavior. If you wish to create such a word, however, may I suggest a crunch of crocodiles?'"

"What is the collective name for a group of alligators or crocodiles, such as a herd of elephants, brood of hens, host of angels, parliament of owls or clowder of cats? We had a lot of fun with this one, but couldn't find an answer."

"My parakeet has diarrhea. What shall I do?"

FROM SUE KAPLAN, Redwood City reference librarian:

"A native of India wanted to know the possibility of importing human cadavers into the United States."

"A patron wanted to know the name of the second wife of Henry Roberts, who wrote 'Roberts' Rules of Order.' We were able to find that out."

FROM ELENA FIANT and Steve Lukasiak, reference librarians in Woodside:

"How to determine the sex of geese?"

"Do you have a picture of a camel in parade dress? We haven't found one yet."

"How do you pluck ducks?"

"About a year ago a 12-year-old wanted information on homeopathic, naturopathic and other types of medicine, one having to do with herbs. We didn't do so well with that one then, but we have much more information available now."

FROM ELIZABETH NOYER, East Palo Alto reference librarian:

"We had a patron who was a great horse bettor and he wanted all the names of horses that have run well under unfavorable conditions, such as mud and grass, and then he wanted to trace the blood lineage to determine which horses racing today would be good on a slow track. We sent him a lot of books on horse lineage."

"One afternoon we received a rush request from a family which wanted to know the lyrics of the St. James Infirmary Blues for a funeral the next day. We were able to find out just before the funeral."

"Some Vietnamese people now living here wanted the July, August and September 1974 copies of 'Vietnamese Magazine,' which listed a number of decrees of the Republic of Vietnam. We tried hard, but were not able to get them."

AND FROM JOAN LARSON, Peninsula Library System reference coordinator:

"A patron wanted the origin and or text of the speech given by the mechanical Abraham Lincoln at Disneyland. The archivist at Disneyland replied that it was a composite speech compiled from several of his addresses, and sent her a copy of it."

"A patron asked for the correct spelling for the plural of 'Ms.' The Bay Area Reference Center at the San Francisco Public Library wrote to G.V.C. Merriam Co., which replied that it had no definitive answer but had collected several possible spellings, including Mses, Ms's and Mss."

"A young man, hoping to set a record from juggling, asked for information on previous records, if any. The International Jugglers Association sent detailed information and also invited the patron to its annual convention in Eugene, Ore. in July 1978."

BUT PERHAPS THE top of them all is a question asked at the San Bruno Public Library: "How long would it take a person to die by strangulation, by rope, at a high altitude?" The answer: seven minutes.

months is likely to generate opposition from residents in unincorporated Broadmoor.

The proposal, for a 30-unit condominium project to be built on Edgeworth Avenue between 91st and 92nd streets, also will be heard March 14.

The 15,000 square foot project would be built on a 30,000 square foot lot that is located in front of a primarily single family neighborhood in Broadmoor.

Miller said the project includes 12 one-bedroom units and 18 two-bedroom units at an estimated cost of $65,000-$70,000 each. The agent is Don Nahrwald, acting on behalf of Milan Cuitonivic, property owner.

In addition to the three new condominium proposals, there are two condominium projects built within Daly City some time ago. They are Village Serramonte and Westridge developments.

Miller said the remaining Daly City open land, a few sites in Serramonte, land near the Cow Palace, property around Reservoir Hill near the Crocker neighborhood and scattered sites elsewhere, may generate other condominium proposals.

and a shoe shop in the Colma area, will be helpful if he is elected.

Messina said he too is seeking the post as a means of becoming involved in city affairs.

"At 66, there's not much to do except to keep active," he joked. Messina added that he would have the time required for the treasurer's duties.

Messina is a former member of the Colma Planning Commission, having served for one year as a commissioner before the commission was dissolved by the council.

Messina said he was "disappointed" by the council's decision that there was not sufficient work for the Planning Commission.

WALLACE HONEYWELL is the only candidate who is a prior office-holder. Honeywell was a City Councilman 18 years and was mayor three times.

Two years ago, he retired from the council. "I thought it was time to let someone else do his civic duty," he said.

Honeywell, who has lived in Colma 27 years, is a native of Iowa. He is the general manager of Olivet Memorial Park. He lives at 613 F St.

Honeywell said he is seeking the treasurer's job because "the office was vacated and I enjoy politics."

Cremation

Supervisors this week reluctantly authorized payment of the requested fee increase, but asked Jensen and county manager and district attorney staff members to see if savings could be made by cremation.

By law, the county must assume the responsibility of disposing of remains of the deceased whose families cannot afford the expense or those deceased who have no known living family members.

According to Jensen, the common practice has been to arrange a simple funeral at a cost of no more than $210 and then transfer the body to Cypress Lawn for interment in a potter's field.

The only maintenance of the field is periodic lawn training.

Jensen said the county usually is able to collect up to $250 in Social Security benefits of the deceased to offset costs.

Last year, the coroner explained, the county arranged 50 funerals and burials. Seven of the bodies were cremated at the request of the family.

The supervisors want to know if it is economically wise to cremate the remains of deceased who have no known living relatives and if they can give the coroner the authority to order such action.

Savings can indeed be made by cremating remains, Jensen said, but only to the extent of $65 per person.

business manager at a $22,000 to $26,000 salary level would be a savings "of several thousands of dollars" above the higher salary level of the deputy superintendent.

Gonella said he would like to advertise for the position of business manager for a May 1 hiring.

"This will incur two months of additional salary (before Tonini retires June 30) but when one considers the elimination of the position of deputy superintendent and the difference in salary ranges, a savings will definitely be made over the next year and a half," he said in a memorandum to the board.

Besides reducing costs, Gonella said the management reorganization would "establish two major divisions and allow a smoother operation of administrative services."

Gonella said reducing costs at an administrative level is a step toward dealing with the problem of declining enrollment and reduced revenues.

"The administration and management are keenly aware of declining enrollment and, therefore, jointly must shoulder the responsibility of dealing with it as it relates to staff — administrative, teaching and clerical," he said.

Unlike most other North County school districts, however, Gonella said the JHSD has not felt a need yet to consider closing any of its five schools.

"In the next two or three years, we will address the problem of alternative ways of using facilities," he said.

Airports Commission City and County of San Francisco

Notice of Public Hearing

Notice is hereby given, that pursuant to Airports Commission Resolution #78-0042, adopted February 7, 1978, the Director of Airports, San Francisco International Airport, will conduct a public hearing at the Millbrae City Council Chambers, 621 Magnolia Ave., Millbrae, on Monday, February 27, 1978, at 7:30 o'clock p.m., for the purpose of receiving public comments on:

PROPOSED NOISE ABATEMENT REGULATIONS AT SAN FRANCISCO INTERNATIONAL AIRPORT

1. PREAMBLE
The San Francisco International Airport is governed by the law of the State of California which specified acceptable levels of noise generated by airports within the state. The legally acceptable level will decrease substantially in 1981 and again in 1986. While the Airport is now in compliance with state law, significant reductions in aircraft generated noise will be necessary to remain in compliance in the future. Commercial carriers must progressively replace older and noisier aircraft in their fleets with newer, less noisy aircraft or at least with aircraft which have been retrofitted with less noisy engines. Further, the San Francisco International Airport cannot remain in compliance with state law if air carriers introduce into their fleets various types of aircraft not now operating at San Francisco International which are noisier than the newer, quieter aircraft this regulation mandates. This regulation is designed to permit air carriers a reasonable period of time in which to replace noisy aircraft with quieter aircraft. It is designed to allow all air carriers sufficient time to plan for and acquire, by January 1, 1985, a fleet of aircraft which totally complies with Federal Aviation Regulations — Part 36 Noise Standards. It is designed to put all carriers on notice that this Airport cannot and will not tolerate the introduction into this Airport of aircraft types not presently being utilized here unless those aircraft types have been certified as being in compliance with Federal Aviation Regulations — Part 36 Noise Standards. It is designed to provide an absolute deadline of January 1, 1985, by which date all aircraft, subsonic or supersonic, operating out of San Francisco International Airport must be certified under FAR 36.

2. PURPOSE:
The purpose of this regulation is to provide for a continual reduction of Community Noise Equivalent Levels (CNEL's) at San Francisco International Airport (SFIA) and its environs, in accordance with the provisions of Chapter 9, Subchapter 6, Title 4 of the California Administrative Code by (a) establishing a phased compliance period through January 1, 1985, within which all commercial jet powered transport type aircraft, subsonic or supersonic, must be certified under FAR Part 36; and (b) requiring new types of commercial jet powered transport type aircraft, subsonic or supersonic, not presently operating at SFIA to be certified under FAR Part 36, prior to operating at SFIA.

3. EFFECTIVE DATE:
This regulation shall become effective 90 days after the adoption of this regulation by resolution of the Airports Commission, City and County of San Francisco, pursuant to the powers and duties vested in the Airports Commission by Section 3.691 of the Charter of the City and County of San Francisco, reordained November 2, 1971, in effect December 7, 1971.

4. REGULATION:
Part 1—In order to continue operating at SFIA all commercial jet powered transport type aircraft, which are of an aircraft type now operating at SFIA must: (1) be certified under Federal Aviation Regulations — Part 36 Noise Standards; or (2) be replaced prior to January 1, 1985, with an aircraft that is certified under Federal Aviation Regulation — Part 36; or (3) receive retrofit modifications so as to be certified under Federal Aviation Regulation — Part 36 no later than January 1, 1985.

Part 2—In order to operate at San Francisco International Airport all commercial jet powered transport type aircraft, subsonic or supersonic, which are of a type not presently operating at San Francisco International Airport must be certified under Federal Aviation Regulations — Part 36 noise Standards prior to commencing operation.

Part 3—Airlines certified by the Civil Aeronautics Board of the California Public Utilities Commission to serve at San Francisco International Airport will file at the office of the Director of Airports, SFIA, within 90 days of the adoption of this regulation and at the end of each six-month period thereafter, a listing by aircraft registration number of all aircraft in their respective fleet which will be operated at SFIA, denoting each aircraft's certification status with respect to FAR Part 36 as implemented by FAR Part 91, subpart E. Listings should show that phased compliance pursuant to FAR Part 36, by type aircraft, adhere to the provisions of Section 91.305(b) of FAR Part 91, subpart E.

5. VARIANCES:
Requests by airline operators for a variance from any provisions of this regulation will be considered by the Airports Commission when submitted in writing to the Director of Airports, SFIA, not later than 60 days prior to the time the variance, if granted, would become effective. Requests for a variance must show the type of variance being requested, the effective time frame of the variance and the basis upon which the variance is sought. Requests for variances will be heard by the Airports Commission at regularly scheduled meetings. Airline operators requesting a variance will be duly notified prior to the Airports Commission meeting at which the request for variance will be considered.

No variance will be granted by the Airports Commission unless there is a finding, by the Airports Commission, of good cause for failure of such aircraft operator to comply with this regulation. In determining if good cause exists, the Airports Commission shall consider those circumstances appropriate and reasonable under the conditions at the time of the request of variance. Notice of the decision of the Airports Commission on the requested variance will be made in writing by the Director of Airports to the aircraft operator prior to the effective date of the variance.

No variance will be considered which requests relief from the provisions of FAR Part 36 or FAR Part 91 as they apply to this Airports regulation unless a variance from the provisions of FAR Part 36 and FAR Part 91 has been previously granted to the airline operator by the appropriate Federal agency. Under no circumstances will the Airports Commission extend the time of compliance with the Regulation beyond January 1, 1985.

6. ENFORCEMENT:
The Airports Commission in and for the City and County of San Francisco and pursuant to the authority granted by the State of California, shall reserve the right to revoke or suspend any and all operating permits or licenses granted by the Airports Commission to any airline operation when it has been substantially determined that said airline has not complied with the provisions set forth herein.

7. SEVERABILITY:
If any portion of this regulation or the application thereof to any aircraft operator is held unconstitutional or otherwise unlawful, the remainder of the regulation and the application of same to other aircraft operators shall not be affected thereby.

All interested parties are invited to participate.

Reprieve Certain For ABAG Plans

By JANET PARKER
The controversial Bay Area Environmental Management Plan was virtually assured a Congressional hearing and a two-month reprieve for further study when leaders from nine counties met Thursday night.

Now the ball is in the hands of San Mateo County Rep. Leo J. Ryan. He has been asked to shuttle his House Subcommittee on Environment, Energy and Natural Resources to the Bay Area — probably to San Mateo County.

The Association of Bay Area Governments Executive Board, meeting in San Francisco, requested Ryan to hold that hearing after the final vote on the plan in June.

Ryan's field representative, Joe Holsinger, said Ryan will decide this week-end precisely when the hearing will be held. He is "leaning toward" a date after the ABAG General Assembly in June.

But the most startling development in the EMP's tumultuous two years was Marin County's decision to pull out of ABAG unless study of the air quality phase of the plan were extended at least a year.

Marin Supervisor Arnold Baptiste walked out of the meeting when the board voted instead for only a two-month extension, moving the final General Assembly from April 6 to sometime in early June.

ABAG's legal counsel, Art Harris, had said that the Bay Area would fail to meet federal deadlines if it extended the plan beyond two months. The air quality phase must be submitted to the Environmental Protection Agency by Jan. 1.

San Mateo County's four representatives — Supervisors Fred Lyon and John Ward, and San Mateo Councilwoman Jane Baker and Woodside Councilman Nat Landes — all voted for the two-month extension and against another motion for a six-month extension.

"I want to know what effort will be made to get more citizen input," Ward inquired.

"I think 90 percent of the people in my county are unaware of the significance of this plan," he said. "If we're serious about it, we have to do a much better job of getting this information out."

His question went unanswered.

The local leaders were concerned about meeting the legal requirements. Neither they nor any other board members volunteered to jump on Marin's bandwagon as Baptiste left.

The total 550-page plan — prepared with a $4.3 million federal grant — is said to be the most far-reaching effort to protect the Bay Area environment ever.

San Mateo County had led the plea for a hearing by Ryan's subcommittee to evaluate the federal statutes that are requiring these plans across the country.

The San Francisco Bay Area is the only region in the country to attempt writing its own plan covering water and air quality, solid waste and water supply.

Councilman Landes made the motion requesting a House Subcommittee trip to the Bay Area.

Supervisor Lyon, however, added that the hearing should occur after the ABAG General Assembly has acted on the plan.

"Until there is a plan, there is little purpose or direction for these hearings as proposed," Lyon said. And until the General Assembly meeting, there really isn't a plan — only a proposed plan, he explained.

Holsinger said this morning that Ryan met with ABAG officials on Thursday and found them cooperative concerning the hearing.

He said Ryan must decide when it is most valuable to hold the hearing.

The congressman, he said, wants local legislators to make up their own minds about the plan without congressional interference.

The hearing is intended to aid not just San Mateo County but all the regions in the country, he said. If the hearing is held after the plan is adopted, the state agencies or the EPA could change the plan, although it would be out of the hands of local officials by then.

If there are errors in the final adopted plan, Congress can point them out, Holsinger said.

One board member noted that the plan could be rejected entirely, eliminating the need for a costly congressional hearing here.

"We might vote, 'No,' and then it's all over," said Lenard Grote of Pleasant Hill. "There's nothing to investigate."

The dramatic move by Marin is the boldest action against the EMP and ABAG to date.

In announcing Marin's withdrawal, Baptiste urged other cities and counties to do the same.

Ironically, Baptiste said he was the only member of his Board of Supervisors that voted against a one-year extension.

ABAG lawyer Harris said that this region won't meet the provisions of the Air Quality Act of 1977 if it holds off another year.

The federal government is getting tough, threatening withdrawal of funds if deadlines aren't met, Harris said.

Other board members said this region had committed itself to completing the air quality phase with the other phases of the EMP.

But a Contra Costa official who sought a six-month delay predicted that other cities and counties will withdraw from ABAG if the plan is pushed through in its present form.

Grote said ABAG has to accept majority rule.

"When you have a voluntary association and you bow to threats like this on this and any other issues, then it's time to fold up," Grote said.

"Either we hang together or we watch somebody else control the Bay Area," Grote said.

The six-month extension was rejected, 17-8.

The deadline for public input on the EMP was extended from March 2 to March 31.

Landes said he and this county's other three representatives agreed it was far better to make a decision — either accepting, rejecting or amending the plan — within the legal deadlines than to miss the deadlines and risk having a federal plan imposed upon the region.

"We were afraid with their (Marin's) approach, we would lose the opportunity to say we don't want this item or we don't want this plan," Landes said.

A year more for hearings would be nice but unwise, he explained.

Pacifica Seeks Savings

Battle lines with other governmental agencies were drawn on three fronts by the Pacifica City Council this week, all aimed at saving the city or its citizens some money.

City Manager Donald G. Weidner told the council Tuesday that city managers of San Mateo County plan to fight a new Regional Water Quality Control Board plan calling for only "selected management practices" to be used to control and clean up storm runoff waters.

Weidner said he had seen the text of the plan only Tuesday, but at a city manager's state conference in Pasadena this week he was to join with others from this county in a caucus to decide what to do.

The water quality agency plan is "capricious," Weidner charged, because that agency would decide the "management practices." This means, he said after the meeting, that Pacifica could be forced into buying expensive equipment such as another street sweeper or other items when the situation in Pacifica doesn't call for it.

Weidner said the city managers also were asking the County Council of Mayors to voice its protest this week, in time for the Feb. 21 Water Quality Control Board meeting, at which one of several "candidate measures" may be adopted.

The mandated means of cleanup of water runoff would apply to all local jurisdictions whether it suited them or not, Weidner explained.

The city also may get into a court suit as a plaintiff with 1,530 other state and local governments across the country against a new federal law mandating these agencies pay the costs of new public employee unemployment programs.

The council got copies of a letter from Lorvan written Monday to San Francisco Board of Supervisors President Dianne Feinstein protesting "maintaining water rate increases which were imposed on a temporary basis because of the recent drought."

Trojans Win Opener

The Daly City Recreation Division's Girls Kick-ball League started off with a bang as the Holy Angels Trojans came out kicking in mid-season form and went on to defeat the S.A.L. Little Bears 24-9.

The St. Andrew's Scots led by Lena Sanchez and Michelle Burns scored 10 runs in the first inning and never looked back as they downed the Holy Angels Firebirds 31-11. O.L.M. defeated the S.A.L. Angels 32-20 as both teams looked very strong in the 4th grade and under division.

The 5th Grade Division featured some close and evenly-matched teams as the S.A.L. Stompers led by Wilamena Lacuesta and Susan Fitzgerald kicked their way past the Holy Angels Cobras by a final count of 11-5. In other action the St. Thomas More Broncos edged St. Andrews 9-6.

In the Girls 6th Grade games St. Andrew's defeated the Holy Angels Cool Cats 7-1 with the total team effort on defense. The high-scoring offense of the S.A.L. Panthers went into high gear as Tracy Charbonneau led them to a 13-6 victory over the St. Thomas More Broncos.

Lions Lead League

After three weeks of league action in the Daly City Recreation Division's 7th and 8th Grade girls slow pitch softball league, the Lions Better Youth Association leads the league with three impressive wins over S.A.L., St. Andrews and St. Thomas More.

The S.A.L. Base Busters downed Holy Angels "Crusaders" 13-5 as Lori Valls hit a triple and two doubles. Chris Vorpahl pitched seven excellent innings for S.A.L. and Bernadette Charbondan contributed four base hits to the winners' cause.

The Holy Angels Cougars behind the hitting of Stephen Borzoni defeated St. Thomas More 10-3. Jeanine Maurino and Maria Santiago hit two homers each as St. Andrews downed St. Thomas More by a final score of 10-2.

In Feb. 11 action, the S.A.L. Junior Base Busters defeated O.L.M. as Debbie Fisher hit two home runs. Shana Bazemore had three hits and Chris Vorpahl struck out six batters en route to her second victory. The Holy Angels Cougars edged the Holy Angels Crusaders 16-13. In the final game of the day St. Andrews behind Cynthia Saisi's pitching defeated O.L.M. 12-6.

Programs Set for Youngsters

Pre-school creative dramatics, under Joan Marvier, begins Feb. 27 at the Westlake Park Clubhouse, 149 Lake Merced Blvd., from 9:30 to 10:30 a.m., 11 a.m. to noon and 12:30 to 1:30 p.m.

Resident registration deadline is today for kindergym and Thursday for dramatics. Next sessions of each will begin in April. Non-residents will be accepted on a space-available basis.

Arts Council Seeks Entries

Artists in the 19 cities of San Mateo County are invited to enter a major jurving of works in March by the San Mateo county Arts Council.

Entry dates are March 10 and 11 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. both days at the San Mateo County Arts Council, 1219 Ralston Ave., Belmont.

Submissions should include three to four original paintings, graphics, textiles, tapestries or a portfolio and should represent an artist's best work. Rob Allen, gallery coordinator for the Arts Council mini-gallery program said.

Exhibit dates for the works chosen will be in late 1978 and 1979 and artists may be exhibited in one-man or group shows at the Arts Council's four mini-galleries around the county.

Galleries operated by the Council are Corridor Gallery, in the County Government Center in Redwood City; Octagon Gallery, at Daly City City Hall; Sundance Gallery, Hughes Aircraft International Headquarters, San Mateo; and Twin Pines Gallery, in Allen asked that any artists previously selected to exhibit in 1977 and 1978 contact him for scheduling. Allen was retained as gallery coordinator in January and will assist the jury session.

For further information on types of work artists may submit, contact Allen at the Arts Council.

Broadmoor House Tour

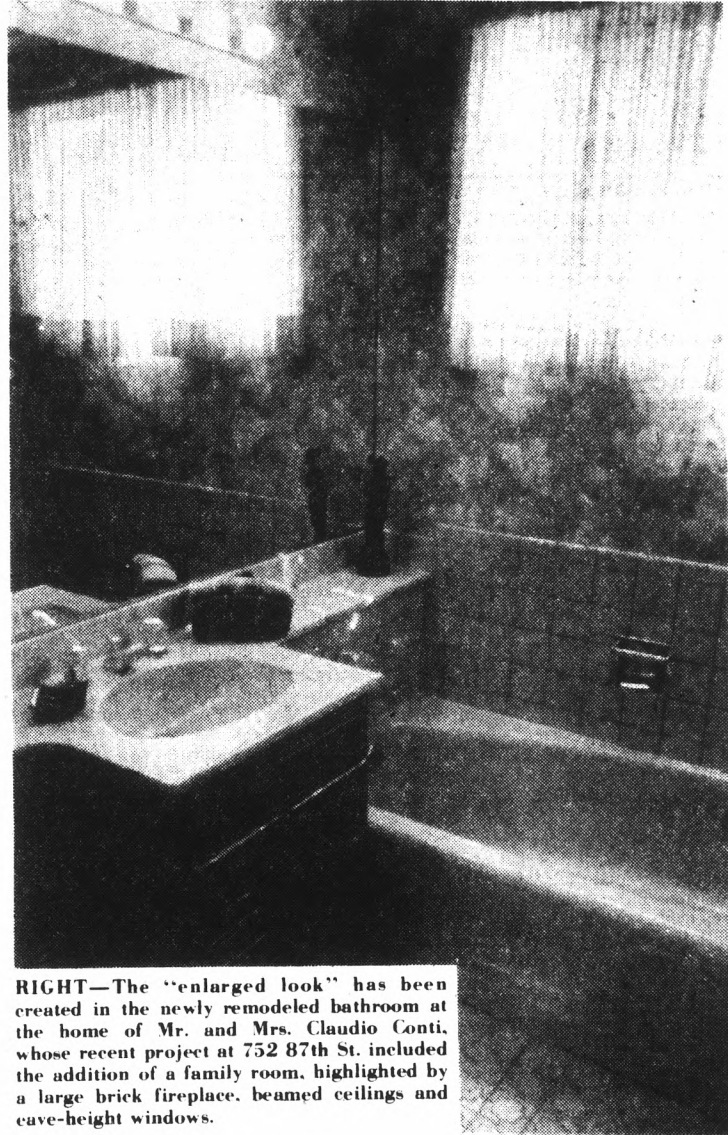

THE GARDEN VILLAGE Parent-Teacher Association is sponsoring a tour of selected Broadmoor Village homes, to show residents how remodeling inside and/or out can enhance their living, Feb. 26, from noon to 5 p.m. Refreshments will be served at the last home on the tour. For ticket information, call the Garden Village School in unincorporated Colma.

Among the special features to be seen on the house tour:

TOP—The home of Mr. and Mrs. Randy Wall, 1038 Gilman Drive, has been extended in front, enlarging the living room and allowing space for entry way/office combination. The kitchen also has been remodeled and a master bedroom and bath added. Mrs. Wall is pictured.

BOTTOM—The special feature at the 1843 Louvaine Drive home of Mr. and Mrs. James Scott is a 14 foot by 21 foot swimming pool with sundeck. The Scotts' backyard treatment includes a flower-vegetable garden. Inside, the kitchen and family room have been redone.

BELOW—This bedroom—in which Angela and Andrea are pictured—is part of an addition to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Brizuela at 911 Wildwood Ave., that included a family room with a step and a railing separating an eating area from the rest of the room. A spacious room, it has a wide view of the family's well-tended garden through sliding glass doors. The bedroom and a full bath are on the upper level of the addition.

RIGHT—The "enlarged look" has been created in the newly remodeled bathroom at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Claudio Conti, whose recent project at 752 87th St. included the addition of a family room, highlighted by a large brick fireplace, beamed ceilings and cave-height windows.

MacDonald — Help Wanted

Loses Jury Pay Case

A Jefferson Union High School District teacher has lost a San Mateo County Small Claims Court case against the district. Driver's education teacher Norman MacDonald had asked the district to award him $244 in lost pay for jury duty last summer. The court, in session in South San Francisco last week, denied MacDonald's request. MacDonald represented his case in court, while District Superintendent Dr. Floyd Gonella spoke on behalf of the district. MacDonald, who had presented his case last fall before the JUHSD Board of Trustees, argued that he should be paid for the eight hours of work he missed when summoned for jury duty. When the board disagreed, MacDonald took the case to court.

The following agencies have requested volunteer assistance from the Volunteer Bureau Voluntary Action Center of San Mateo County, with offices in Burlingame, Redwood City and Daly City.

THE LOCAL PHONE NUMBER for area residents is 992-0957, an answering service. Residents also may contact the main office in Burlingame at 342-0801, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

VETERANS ADMINISTRATION HOSPITAL — Companions are needed for veterans coming out of the hospital to help them with specific goals. This would involve about 4-6 hours per week to help them readjust to the community.

AID TO VICTIMS AND WITNESSES — The South San Francisco office needs volunteers to assist victims and witnesses of violent crimes. Complete training and direction is provided so this is an opportunity to learn about the criminal justice system while helping others in need.

SUNSHINE GARDENS — Teacher aides are needed to assist kindergarten students in the classroom, any day between 8:30 a.m. and 12:30 p.m.

SAN FRANCISCO BAY GIRL SCOUT COUNCIL — Adult volunteers are needed for a Family Participation Day for the community March 11 at Fernando Rivera School in Daly City. Help is especially needed with registration and also people with special skills such as singing or games.

Additional information about these and other volunteer opportunities may be obtained by contacting the Volunteer Bureau at the numbers listed or by dropping by the main office in Burlingame, 119 Primrose Road. Interviews will be made in Daly City by appointment. A project of the Assistance League of San Mateo County, the Bureau shares in the United Way of the Bay Area and is funded, in part, by the County of San Mateo. For students interested in volunteer positions there is a volunteer office located at College of San Mateo and Canada College.

Soroptimists Start Chapter

A charter organization for Daly City professional women has been organized, according to Daly City City Clerk Anna Ohlendorf. Mrs. Ohlendorf said the 19 charter members of the Soroptimist International of Daly City were inducted in ceremonies Feb. 5. The Daly City City Council recognized the new organization in a resolution approved Feb. 13. Officers of the Soroptimist chapter include June Arney Roadman, president; Gayla D. Chappel, vice-president; Arlene E. Swanson, recording secretary; Mrs. Ohlendorf, corresponding secretary; and Rena Corson, treasurer. Directors are Marjorie Bonne and Joyce Woodworth.

GIRL SCOUTING

Girl Scout Thinking Day, an international Girl Scout holiday of celebration, will be observed today and locally this week, as individual troops pause to think of all their sister Scouts.

CAMPING information planning for the summer is underway, according to Daly City Girl Scout Association Camping Coordinator Mrs. Carole Ann Scott.

Daly City Girl Scouts and San Francisco's Golden Gate Association will join forces for Sierra Camp 1978, (which is scheduled for), Camp White Meadows, near Placerville, she said.

Reservations have been made for local girls to attend White Meadows from July 16 through 22, with volunteer adults as well as a central professional staff.

Non-Scouts, as well as Scouts, are welcome, according to Mrs. Scott, and camp folders will be available in early March. More information can be obtained from her or from the 58 Cypress Lane, Brisbane, office of the Council.

Alcohol Film Is Scheduled

A free film, "Life, Death and Recovery of an Alcoholic," will be shown at Mary's Help Hospital in Daly City at 7:30 p.m., Feb. 27, in the ground floor auditorium. The film, narrated by Joe Pursch, M.D., Chief of Navy Alcohol Rehabilitation Services, Long Beach, will discuss the progress of alcoholism in one individual and the process of recovery. Don Froli, program coordinator of the CAREUNIT, Mary's Help Hospital's alcoholism treatment unit, will be available for questions and discussion after the film. For more information, call Mary's Help Hospital's CAREUNIT at 992-1700.

Pleas Fail to Sway Laguna Salada Trustees In Decision to Close One or More Schools

By TERRY DAVENPORT

Pleas and threats failed to convince trustees of the Laguna Salada Union School District Thursday that the district should keep all of its 15 schools open.

After hearing angry comments from 51 citizens in a room packed with about 200 persons, the four trustees present said they intend to close one or more schools.

They will not name the schools they are considering until they actually vote on school closure March 2.

Superintendent James Brien recommended Feb. 2 that the board close Pedro Valley and Vallemar schools in 1978 and Crespi, Portola and Westview schools in 1979.

He revised his proposal Thursday, suggesting that Pedro Valley School retain its kindergarten through third grade students, along with the day care center. Fourth through sixth graders would be sent to Cabrillo and Linda Mar schools.

Brien also advised moving Vallemar's regular pupils to Sharp Park, its Alternative Class pupils to Cabrillo and setting up the new Structured School campus at Vallemar.

He recommended closing Crespi in 1978 instead of 1979 and suggested holding off on any decision to close Westview or Portola until next year.

Brien estimated the district will save at least $100,120 if it takes the action he recommends.

Parents repeatedly asked the board what they would get in return for the inconvenience of having neighborhood schools closed. Told that financial savings were the primary consideration, they offered to pay in order to keep their schools open.

Margaret Goldman said the $100,000 the district could save by closing schools would mean about $20 more per child. "I don't think my kid is going to benefit enough to justify all the trauma. I'm willing to kick in the $20 — $20 is two pairs of sneakers for my kid," she remarked, winning loud cheers and applause.

The superintendent clarified that California law does not permit parents to pay school districts. Parents pointed out that other districts have obtained help by holding fund-raising events and accepting donations of materials.

Many of those present argued against moving the Alternative Class now at Vallemar School. Several charged that the board would be showing favoritism to the new Structured School program if it permitted it to take over Vallemar.

Claire Yates asked the board why the Structured School program would be given extra money. "The Alternative Class never got any money," she said.

Board Chairman Grady Hesters pointed out that the Structured School program had attracted enough pupils to justify earmarking an entire school for it.

Another Vallemar parent held up a map of the city and said moving local students away from Vallemar would deprive them of the only play area in central Pacifica.

Gershon Lemberger was the first of many parents to protest the possible closing of Portola School. "I think most parents agree with me in this area that if students are moved out of our school we will take our children out of the public school system," he remarked.

Lemberger said Portola parents want to fight now to prevent the board from closing their school in 1979.

"We're willing to close our school down for a day, to picket the district, even to picket your homes. We will do anything to convince you not to close our school," he shouted. There was loud applause.

A number of parents challenged the board's goal of providing at least two classes per grade level in each school. Hesters had explained that a choice would allow students to transfer to another class if they have problems with one.

Betty Wilson said, "I feel the children of today are receiving a far better education than my kids did 10 years ago." When she referred to a "current epidemic: pregnancy," the crowd laughed.

Lydia Azevedo tried to convince the board to keep all schools open, submitting a seven-page report in which she argued the board had not allowed enough extra rooms in each school.

Georgia Ricketts charged that the school board intends to sell one of its vacant school sites to the City of Pacifica for a corporation yard.

Hesters stressed that the board would make its decision independent of any considerations the city may have.

Other points angry parents made:

- It would be impossible to have conferences with principals who must teach classes.

- Frances Parker, a Portola parent, noted that the $100,000 the board proposes to save is only 1 1/2 percent of the total school district budget.

- Transferring children to other schools will result in inconvenience, increased costs and danger. "Are you willing to look yourselves in the mirror the first day after a small child is killed by a car?" Lemberger asked the board.

Some said they fear for their children's safety at some schools where students pose discipline problems.

John Straight was the only speaker to defend the board. "I would like to hear some discussion of the realities of the situation," he said, pleading with parents to stop pitting one school against the other.

A woman said she was amused that everyone was suddenly so happy with their schools. Noting that she continues to be dissatisfied with the education her child is receiving at Sanchez School, she declared she would refuse to pay anything extra to keep schools open.

Silence came at last when trustees were asked to express their thoughts.

Trustee Rudie Tretten said that what he had heard Thursday night had changed some of his thinking. Explaining that his primary concern is the children's welfare, he noted that the district is faced with a trade-off of convenience and neighborhood identity in return for program improvements.

"My guess would be that we'll probably end up closing a school, maybe two," Tretten said.

Trustee Curtiss Landers commented that he had been impressed by remarks by what appeared to be a sincere group of people. However, Landers pointed out that those present were linked with schools designated for possible closure.

Landers said, "I frankly feel that many of you people are wrong if you feel that the sense of community is here tonight." He added that the reality of the situation is that most people do not want to pay more to keep schools open.

The big question, Landers said, is not which schools to close but whether to close any at all. "The kinds of things I've heard tonight haven't changed my basic decision to close schools," he remarked.

Landers said he has not yet decided how many schools should be closed.

Another trustee, Marilyn Wills, remarked, "I honestly do not know how I will vote March 2." But she explained that she considers inconvenience due to placing a child in another building less significant than what happens in the classroom.

Mrs. Wills listed a number of improvements that would result from the extra revenues in the district. She urged parents to teach their children how to cope with change. "Your attitude will affect how your children respond to change," she said.

Hopes Told for Restoring Historic 12-Mile House

Planning Director William Costanzo told South San Francisco councilmen Wednesday night that he is exploring all the possibilities of restoring and preserving the historic 12-Mile House on Old Mission Road near Grand Avenue.

Costanzo said, however, that restoration costs are prohibitive, and that he will contact the South San Francisco Historical Society to see if there is an interest in preserving the 128-year-old building.

"It would cost the city in excess of $175,000 to restore the building on its current site. That's extremely expensive," Costanzo said.

The planning director added that it would cost about $11,000 to move the building to another site. That cost, however, would not include re-establishing the foundation.

"At this point," he said, "we need a commitment from a group of volunteers which would raise funds and solicit interest in the preservation and handle the renovation."

The house, which received the first building permit in the history of San Mateo County, is called the 12-Mile House because it is located 12 miles from San Francisco.

It costs money... your money... in the form of higher shelf prices to pay for bingo and games. All supermarkets operate on a low profit margin, so it's often necessary to increase profits to finance bingo and giveaways... and this is usually done by raising shelf prices. Lucky will not do business this way, because we believe customers want low food prices.

Actual Shopping Test

While she was shopping at Lucky, we invited Mrs. Joyce Willis to make a shopper's comparison test for us, and she agreed. Using her own shopping list of items she had personally selected, she purchased groceries at Lucky which totalled $89.66. She then purchased the same or comparable items at another nearby supermarket using her same shopping list. This time, the same or comparable items cost her $98.49. Mrs. Willis spent $8.83 less at Lucky.

Obviously, the amount of savings varies depending on each individual shopping list... but the important thing is that Lucky is committed to low everyday discount prices... not just a few prizes!

She reduced her food costs 9% shopping at Lucky!

Mrs. Willis' shopping comparison test was notarized by a licensed Notary Public on February 3, 1978.

Women Workers Win Equal-Pay Struggle

Women working in the Laguna Salada Union School District have won a 10-year battle to equalize wages with men.

The board of trustees unanimously approved salary increases for classified jobs traditionally held by women.

Secretaries received a 10 percent pay boost, clerical workers and paraprofessionals won a 5 percent wage increase and cook-managers were given a 15 percent pay hike.

Cafeteria assistants, snack bar helpers, cafeteria helpers and custodial staff received minimal or no increases because their wages are closer to county averages.

Dr. Lucille Foster, who heads personnel for the district, explained that the action Thursday was implementing Title IX federal guidelines.

"It's not an ideal plan, but it's a big step forward," she said.

She noted that the district could not entirely equalize salaries for women without paying top scale.

"The Personnel Commission had to realize the financial limitations of the district," she said.

Dr. Foster added that some of the women receiving increases had been fighting for them for 10 years.

Loss of Her Backyard Is Costly, Frustrating

Pauline Wilds, the Pacifica woman whose backyard slipped into the sea last week, said Thursday that she's $5,000 in debt and completely frustrated.

After heavy rains caused 15 feet of her yard to vanish Feb. 8, Mrs. Wilds learned that she does not qualify for any form of public assistance.

"The City of Pacifica says it's not their land, my insurance company says my policy doesn't cover this and the Red Cross says they can't provide any disaster relief unless the whole street falls in," she lamented.

Indeed, there is a no disaster relief available for damage to a single residence.

Acting on the city's advice, Mrs. Wilds hired a soils engineer to come and inspect her property.

"Some inspection! He looked over the cliff and charged me $200!" she exclaimed.

But she was relieved to learn that the engineer considered her house safe enough to live in — if she had her living room removed. That room, an addition to the original structure, sat precariously on the edge of a 100-foot cliff after her yard vanished.

Mrs. Wilds paid the city $5 for a demolition permit. She was enraged when the building inspector refused to come out over the weekend.

"I wanted to have the work started on Friday, but he couldn't come until Tuesday," she said. "You see, Monday was a holiday."

She explained that she must obtain a loan to pay the contractor the $3,000 she will owe him after the work is completed today.

"I don't have savings like that," she declared.

In addition, it cost $400 for a moving company to remove her furniture, plus monthly storage charges for her belongings. She also is renting a room in Pacifica to store her clothes. She is living with her mother.

Another expense is her lawyer, who is trying to determine how she can qualify for aid.

And a hidden cost is the decreasing value of her property. Prospective buyers may be alarmed when they compare her now tiny backyard to those of her neighbors.

A teacher in San Francisco, Mrs. Wilds fears she also is losing wages, since she hasn't been to work since the slide occurred.

"I've probably used up my sick leave by now, but, of course, I can't help it," she commented.

The most annoying part of her experience has been the sightseers who gawk at her house. Since two television stations broadcast stories about her, she's had uninvited visitors from as far away as Alabama and Chicago.

"They come prowling through the house. Some ask if I have damaged furniture to sell," she said.

Murder Charge Reduced To Voluntary Manslaughter

Edward F. Garcia, 26, pleaded no contest Wednesday to a reduced charge of voluntary manslaughter in the slaying of Scott Alvin Avery in Daly City last Nov. 21.

Garcia had been charged with murder.

Superior Court Judge Thomas M. Jenkins approved the plea bargain proposed by prosecutor Clifford Cretan and defense attorney William Rapoport. Sentencing is scheduled for March 15.

The same charges against Eugene A. Rebollini, 23, were dismissed in Municipal Court last month. Rebollini and Garcia are from San Francisco.

Airman Keith O. Jackson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elliott Jackson, 53 Frankfort St., Daly City, has been assigned to Lowry AFB, Colo., after completing Air Force basic training.

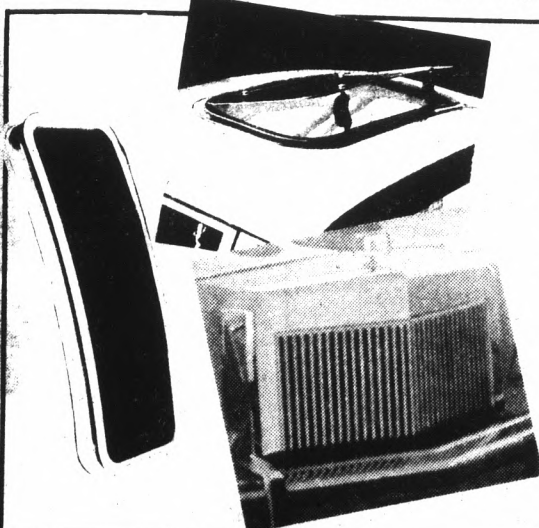

During the six weeks at Lackland AFB, Tex., the airman studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special instruction in human relations. Completion of this training earned the individual credits towards an associate in applied science degree through the Community College of the Air Force.

Airman Jackson now will receive specialized training in the munitions and weapons maintenance field.

The airman, a 1975 graduate of Serramonte High School, attended Skyline College.

A crowded police station in S.S.F.

By Bill Hirschmann

IT IS DIFFICULT in South San Francisco to find someone who will contest the fact that the city's Police Department is housed in cramped facilities.

And the city hopes that voters will resolve that problem March 7 and approve a tax override to allow the city to buy the Value Giant building in the Buri Buri Shopping Center and turn it into a new police facility.

This project is of great concern to the people of South San Francisco," says Mayor Emanuel D. Monte. "Everybody recognizes the crowded conditions in the existing building. I'd personally hate to see this measure fail."

THE POLICE facility, at 315 Maple Ave., was built in 1949 and then housed 19 officers serving a population of 19,000. Today there are more than 100 personnel in the Police Department, serving the city's near 50,000 population.

According to Police Chief James Datzman, the conditions nearly are unbearable.

□ The patrol administrative office originally was a store room.

□ The employee lunch room originally was a drunk tank.

□ There is an acute storage problem throughout the facility.

□ A garage elsewhere in the city is being leased to provide additional storage space.

"Even those people against this particular proposal will recognize that there is a need," Datzman says. "These cramped conditions today have an adverse effect on the morale of the employees."

The measure on the ballot needs a simple majority vote.

IF APPROVED, The total project would cost the city $4 million. Of that, the two largest expenditures would be for the Value Giant building itself, $1.41 million, for remodeling for police use, $1.49 million.

The city also hopes to house its Parks and Recreation Department (now in leased quarters) in the facility and to provide for senior citizen classes within it.

If approved the measure would authorize a tax override of approximately 5 cents per $100 of assessed valuation.

In actual money, the override would cost a taxpayer with an $80,000 home a maximum of $10 per year for 20 years.

Sewage Plant Dedication

Federal, state and county officials are expected to attend dedication ceremonies of the $13.6 million North San Mateo County Sanitation District wastewater treatment and reclamation facility March 2 in Daly City.

Included in the list of dignitaries is Congressman Leo J. Ryan (D-San Mateo), State Senator John Foran (D-San Francisco), Assembly Speaker Leo T.

McCarthy (D-San Francisco), Assemblyman Louis J. Papan (D-Daly City), and members of the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors.

Daly City Mayor Albert Teglia and County Supervisor James V. Fitzgerald, along with Daly City City Councilman Anthony Giammona, constitute the district's three-man Board of Directors.

The sophisticated treatment facility will collect an estimated eight million gallons of wastewater daily from throughout the North San Mateo County area, administer a high degree of treatment employing the most modern techniques yet devised and will market this reclaimed water to agricultural and industrial consumers in the area.

Among the first customers for this new source of water is the Olympic Golf and Country Club.

The club, although in San Francisco, will receive one million gallons of the reclaimed water daily for use in irrigating the golf course, according to District Manager David N. Gehre.

Other potential users of the district's reclaimed water supply are the surrounding parks, cemeteries and golf courses.

Use of this reclaimed wastewater will preserve the area's underground drinking water supply, district officials feel.

The possibility of drought periods in the future, similar to the two-year dry spell that recently ended, still exists, Gehre said.

The reclamation facility provides an entirely new source of water for North San Mateo County.

Design plans of the facility were provided by Resources Engineering & Management of South San Francisco. Homer J. Olsen, Inc. of Union City was prime engineering contractor in construction of the plant.

The buildings occupy some 2 1/2 acres in the southwest corner of Westlake Park.

The public is invited to the dedication ceremonies, starting at 11 a.m., March 2, at the sanitation district facility, 153 Lake Merced Boulevard, Daly City.

SPRUCING UP

Thomas Edison School in Daly City will observe its Founders Day and the 18th birthday of the school at ceremonies at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the school. Cleaning up the school name plaque are, left to right, wsira Stenberg, Jamsetta Russell and Jack Fischer. Students will present school and national highlights of the past 18 years during the program.

Fidelity Youth Art Contest Opens

Local high school students have an opportunity to participate in the third annual Calendar Art Scholarship Program sponsored by Fidelity Savings and Loan Association.

Top prize is a $2,000 art school scholarship. The 12 runners-up receive $500 awards. All 13 winning drawings will be reproduced and published in Fidelity's 1979 Art Scholarship Calendar with a distribution of over 1.5 million. The winning students' schools each receive a $100 donation to their art departments.

Application blanks are available at local Fidelity branches at 382 Grand Ave., South San Francisco, or 446 Broadway, Millbrae.

Entries from area high schools are judged locally at the Fidelity branch, with winners there then qualifying for the final judging in San Francisco. At the branch level judging is done by the Fidelity branch manager and two local art experts. There is no personal identification visible on the drawings at the time of the judging to ensure impartiality.

The artwork must be an original pen and ink line drawing of a local point of interest, such as a landscape, distinctive building, or historical monument.

All students in the 9th through 12th grades during the 1977-78 school year are eligible to enter.

GREETING HIS HOLINESS

His Holiness Baba Gurba-chan Singh Ji Maharaj, head of the Santo Nirankari Mission (Universal Brotherhood), greets a young admirer at San Francisco International Airport last Wednesday while his official greeter, Daly City Mayor Al Tegli, right, looked on. The Indian holy man is on a world-wide tour and arrived here for a spiritual assembly in San Francisco Sunday.

Samuel Chandler

"A loaf of bread, the Walrus said
Is what we chiefly need
Sugar and vinegar besides
Are very good indeed —
Now if you're ready, Oysters dear,
We can begin to feed."

—Lewis Carroll

Today we feed on confections that would have sent Lewis Carroll and his characters screaming for foods that one youngster saluted in ecstasy.

"Candy, cakes,
Pies, puddings and ice cream,
Cookies, crackers and chips,
Chewing gums and mints —
Eating is such fun
With food in brightest tints!"

—Nancy

"If it is indeed true that you are what you eat," writes Michael Lasky, "then we all might as well tie ourselves in a Hefty bag and throw ourselves away. More than half the food an average American consumes each year is junk."

THIS IS no idle accusation, as Lasky reveals. Last year each American consumed 100 pounds of refined sugar; 55 pounds of fats and oils; 300 cans or bottles of soda; more than 200 sticks of chewing gum; over 20 gallons of ice cream; 18 pounds of candy; five pounds of potato chips; a couple more of popcorn, pretzels, corn chips, 63 dozen doughnuts; and a conservatively estimated 50 pounds of cookies and cakes.

And, writes Lasky, "we loved every empty calorie of it, making us the first nation to have malnutrition extending to all income levels — from rich to poor." To this he adds "If the body is the temple of the soul, then anybody who consumes junk food is an atheist."

Lasky's volume "The Complete Junk Food Book" (McGraw-Hill, $7.95), is a junk food almanac that was written by a realist whose message to Americans is "We must learn to restrain ourselves. For the excessive consumption of junk food is, if not killing us slowly, gradually making us malnourished and unhealthy."

HIS ALMANAC is divided into three parts. In the first, called "The Joys of Junk Food," there is an essay that discusses the psychology of junk food under the title "Why We Eat It and the Excuses We Make For It." Yet another tackles the subject of junk food and your health.

The second part deals with particular kinds of junk food: ice cream, buckets and burgers, breakfast food, etc., and analyzes each, rating them according to the harm they do and the food value they contain, if any.

The third section of Lasky's book is a compendium listing many brand names, and lists for each the ingredients, sugar quotient, dental harm, oil quotient, nutrient level and calorie count. Thus the tooth rotters are named as well as those with no food value.

FOR MANY readers the heart of Lasky's book is in part two and is entitled "Fast Food Chains: A Traveler's Guide To Eating." Here Lasky reveals that he is pleased with McDonald's, finding it exceptionally clean and serving a Big Mac that is a work of art. He finds excellent service at Kentucky Fried Chicken and food that has a zesty taste but a poor rating in regard to the grease quotient. The Dairy Queen stores differ so drastically it is possible to get a hamburger in one unit that is excellent, but one that is soggy and tasteless in another. The food Lasky found in the Pizza Huts he visited was good enough to advise travelers to "give 'em a try." Shakey's Pizza, he reveals, is undergoing a change; yet their food is "well above average fare."

Of the "Cheapo Steak Joints" — Rustler, Sizzler and the rest, Lasky writes "All offer a wholesome family meal for the budget-minded."

Truly "The Complete Junk Food Book" is worth every minute a reader spends with it, even as he eats the food that prompted Larry Groce to sing:

"In the daytime I'm Mister Natural
Just as healthy as I can be.
But at night I'm a junk food junkie
Good Lord have pity on me."

Big league owners said last year that that would be the last of the exorbitant spending on re-entry free agents, but this year they spent more per player than they did last year. And probably spent it more foolishly. In 1977, at least their money went to regular performers. Of the 14 major signees this season, only six, in my book, could have been considered day in, day out players and two of those were out for big blocks of time with injuries, while one of the pitchers considered to be a regular rotation man wasn't exactly a workhorse.

Larry Hise (Milwaukee, $3,155,000, six years) was truly a star for Minnesota, but was bothered by injuries later in the season and played only 141 games, some of those as a designated hitter or pinch-hitter or in just part of a game.

RICHIE ZISK (Texas, $2,955,000, 10 years), a great slugger for Chicago last year, also played just 142 games, and was at bat 15 fewer times than Hise because he was out for a month in late season and played only part-time for the latter part of it (designated hitter, pinch-hitter, etc.).

In fact, of the "position" players, only Lyman Bostock (California, $2,250,000, five years) played virtually every day. He gave the Twins their money's worth.

Of the six re-entry pitchers, only Yankee starter Mike Torrez (Boston, $2,507,249, seven years) and relievers Rich Gossage and Rawly Eastwick, both now of the Yankees but then of Pittsburgh and St. Louis, respectively, put in heavy work. Between them, incidentally, they will be collecting $3,848,000 for a combined 11 years.

ROSS, GRIMSLEY (Montreal, $1,375,000, six years) was in the starting Baltimore rotation, about at 34 games for 218 innings, he was hardly old reliable.

The other two pitchers, George Medich (Texas, $1 million, four years) and Terry Forster (L.A., $850,000, five years), had easy seasons. Medich worked little for the A's and hardly at all for the Mets, while Forster was in only 33 games and 87 innings for Pittsburgh.

Oscar Gamble (San Diego, $2,850,000, six years) was actually only a platoon player for most of the year for the White Sox, playing mainly against right-handed pitchers. As such, he played 137 games and was at bat only 408 times.

DAVE KINGMAN (Cubs, $1,375,000, five years), with all of his bouncing around, played only 114 games for just 379 AB's.

Elliott Maddox (Mets, $950,000, five years) played hardly at all for Baltimore while still recovering from serious knee surgery, the extent of which is still somewhat a question mark.

Bruce Bochte (Seattle, $504,000, four years) played a lot for Cleveland, but was hardly near being an iron man, with 137 games and 492 at bats.

Strangest bonus signing of all was to Ron Blomberg (White Sox, $600,000, four years), who hasn't played at all for almost two years because of extensive injuries and who still hasn't proved to anyone's satisfaction that he will even replay efficiently again.

AS REVEALED last week, the Giants weren't nearly so weak at bunting (fourth in the NL), leaving men on third with less than two out (third in the NL) and leaving men on base in general (seventh in league), as detractors would lead us to believe.

Of course, there are mitigating factors. A weak hitting team such as the Giants were doesn't have as many to leave on base as a good hitting team; a weak hitting team MUST bunt more and because such statistics don't reflect how many bunts were botched up, there could be somewhat of a distortion there. But, by and large, it seems, the Giants were better at "inside" baseball than probably most of us imagined.

Meanwhile the Giants have hired Maury Wills to help them with such things, but it shouldn't be a waste of time. Even though base stealing is an over-rated baseball commodity (what good did all that steals do Oakland last season, or the California Angels, or, in the '50s, the White Sox, who did much better last year with slowness at foot and slugging), good baserunning isn't. And even though the Giants' most desperate need is an improved defense, improved baserunning (taking the extra base on a hit, scoring from second on a single, with less than two outs NOT getting picked off bases) ranks second in their needs column.

PERHAPS ANOTHER big Giants' need, since the National League doesn't have designated hitting, is improvement on pitcher batting. The Giants' pitching staff last year averaged only .150, which is bad even for pitchers. Such vaunted "good hitting" pitchers as Jim Barr and Ed Halicki batted only .132 and .177, respectively, although Barr did lead the staff in RBI (9), and Halicki in total hits (15) and home runs (2). Actually, the leading hitter among those who were at bat a substantial number of times was rookie Bob Knepper (.182), while John Curtis and Charlie Williams, at bat less than 20 times, averaged .230 and .222, respectively, which was respectable. Gary Lavelle was "Most Pathetic," with nothing for 14.

Before the subject of defense gets too far removed, the Giants have a significant problem with Gary Thomason, who isn't, at this time, about to supplant Willie McCovey at first base, yet who was — last season, at least — one of the worst outfielders in the league. Still, Thomason had the best slugging average among regulars (if there were any on Joe Altobelli's platoon system) on the team (.451), aside from McCovey (.500), who was 12th best in the NL. Also to consider, however, is that Thomason was among the lower echelon among Giants in game-winning and go-ahead RBI.

MCCOVEY, of course, led in both categories (15 game winners, 13 go-aheads), while Darrell Evans, even though platooning (which he won't in '78), was second in both categories (11 and 13) despite a disappointing slugging average of .416. Strangely, the since-departed light-hitting semi-regular shortstop, Tim Foli, was third in game-winning RBI (6); and fourth in go-ahead RBI (6).

Also to be considered, regarding defense, is the fact that catcher Gary Alexander, who at the moment can't carry Marc Hill's glove or match his arm, had a .496 slugging average. And Terry Whitfield, a better defensive outfielder at the moment than either Thomason or the promising Jack Clark, had a surprisingly strong .416 SA.

LOCAL NOTES: Jefferson High School's very active Booster Club is currently in the throes of a paper drive, funds to go toward various projects designed to upgrade the Jeff sports program, and would appreciate donations in the debris box at Sullivan and Pierce streets in Daly City.

On Feb. 25 and March 18 there will be a collection truck at the school.

Questions for directions, etc., may be directed to Paul DeNatale (755-8028) or Jeff football and wrestling coach Jack Burgett (992-4050).

RANDY PETERSON, Terra Nova High's premier distance runner, recently finished fifth at UCLA in the United States Track and Field Federation decathlon.

Peterson now figures to be among the top 10 decathlon runners in the state.

Westmoor Upsets Serramonte

By JOHN MURPHY

Confidence, Serramonte High's basketball team has had it all along. But it seems that upstart Westmoor is just beginning to believe in itself.

Optimism was spreading like the Russian flu Friday night in Westmoor's steamy dressing room after the Rams upset Serramonte 65-60 in a North Peninsula League playoff game at Skyline College.

And why not? The victory was Westmoor's second close playoff win in as many nights (the Rams edged Jefferson 52-50 in overtime on Keith Harband's shot at the buzzer Thursday night). Westmoor outplayed the Regents in every phase of the game, and most of the Rams felt that there would be a repeat performance Tuesday night.

That's when round-robin champion Serramonte (unbeaten in NPL play till Friday night) and runnerup Westmoor were scheduled to meet again for the NPL championship. The showdown was slated for 8:30 at Skyline.

"I think we'll beat 'em," commented steady veteran forward Mark Navarro. "We play better defense, rebound better and play better team ball."

Navarro is probably right on all three counts. Friday night's game was much like these teams' first two encounters. In both of those contests Westmoor had outplayed Serramonte for most of the game before wilting under the pressure in the fourth quarter.

But there was to be no "el foldo" this time around. Four consecutive free throws by Harband and center Sheldon Scott gave Westmoor a 60-53 lead with 5:28 left in the game. But Serramonte's Conrad Simon sandwiched a pair of field goals around a free throw by Ricky Mixon to pull the Regents to within two with just over four minutes left.

Westmoor guard Ken Baptista and Simon then exchanged a pair of outside jumpers and the Rams still led 62-60 with 2:15 left.

Ram guard Tony Limutau made a big play a half minute later after teammate Scott missed a short jumper. Serramonte snared the rebound, but Limutau grabbed the ball away and fed Harband underneath the basket. He was fouled.

Harband made one of two from the line, and that was all the breathing room that Westmoor needed. The Rams' 63-60 lead somehow stood up in the final hectic, sloppy minute of play.

In the final 63 seconds there were six turnovers committed. Westmoor coach Tony Giammona desperately wanted his team to get into its four-corner delay offense, but the Rams had difficulty getting the ball past midcourt.

It didn't matter. Serramonte's shots didn't drop at the end, and Navarro's pair of free throws with 0:04 left put the nails in the coffin.

"I thought we were going to give it away in the final two minutes," admitted Giammona afterwards.

"We're not that experienced at holding the ball," added Harband. "It's tough when you have to switch from the fast pace to this slowdown. Even Phil Ford (North Carolina's ballhandling wizard) makes mistakes."

Westmoor didn't make that many mistakes, however, through the first three quarters. Serramonte held a 33-29 advantage at intermission, but the Rams came charging back in the third period.

There was nothing complicated about Westmoor's offensive strategy. Baptista and Limutau simply took turns driving through the middle at Serramonte's big man, Lou Tinsley.

If Tinsley came up, then Baptista or Limutau would zip a pass underneath to Scott or Navarro for an easy lay-in.

Baptista, who knows only one direction — forwards — was especially adept at this. He tallied six points in the third period and dished off a couple of nice assists to Scott, who had eight points in the quarter.

"They left the middle open so I was able to take it and then feed off a lot," commented Baptista afterwards.

"Kenny drives me goofy sometimes," chuckled Giammona in the locker room. "I'm trying to get him to pull up once in a while for that short jumper at the free throw line, but he likes to penetrate deeper."

Westmoor mounted a 52-47 lead by the end of the third quarter and never trailed thereafter.

COMPLEX DEDICATED

With a large group of onlookers present, Skyline College dedicated its automotive complex and new auto-technical building Thursday afternoon. The event coincided with National Vocational Education Week. The modern automotive facility at the San Bruno campus represents the San Mateo County Community College District's commitment to provide occupational education programs which are directed towards skills training and re-training for employment, said a college spokesman. Skyline's Automotive Mechanic Technology Program provides entry-level training for experienced mechanics to meet the in-service needs of the automotive industry. In addition, a number of consumer-oriented courses in automobiles is offered. Currently, 60 students are enrolled in the entry-level program which, at capacity in the fall, will accommodate 80 students. Students in the program may receive an associate in arts degree in automotive mechanic technology after two years of classroom work and practical training. Certificates of completion in three program subspecialties also are available.

Accomplishments Praised

Water Superintendent Resigns

DALY CITY — City Manager David Rowe has announced the resignation of the city's water superintendent, Herbert R. McDonald.

McDonald came to Daly City on July 1, 1970, from the State Public Utilities Commission, where he served as assistant utility engineer.

Among the many accomplishments of the Water Division under his supervision, Rowe said, are the completion of the 12-million-gallon reservoir and pumping station in Serramonte, the installation of a laboratory at the Citrus Station, the installation of an emergency generator, and the installation of a control panel allowing for remote control of the various pumping stations.

The initiation and completion of the fire hydrant maintenance and flushing program have resulted in a reduced fire rating for the city, Rowe added.

The training program for division personnel initiated by McDonald also has contributed toward the smooth operation of the Division during his seven and one-half year tenure, Rowe said.

McDonald leaves the city to return to the State Public Utilities Commission as associate water utility engineer. He and his wife live in Millbrae.

The city manager announced the temporary appointments of Alfred J. Bender as acting water superintendent and George A. Saeger as acting water operations foreman.

Tucker Charges 'Leadership' Lag

Chamber Role Debated

Daly City City Council candidate James Tucker enlivened 15 minutes of placid presentations by five candidates Thursday by charging "The Chamber of Commerce is not living up to its potential."

Tucker addressed his remarks to a luncheon meeting of the Greater Daly City Chamber of Commerce.

The candidate went on to say to the surprised gathering of about 50 that the chamber should take a more active role in building commercial interest in Daly City's redevelopment area, Mission Street and Junipero Serra Boulevard.

"The Chamber of Commerce must provide the necessary leadership to attract commercial development to the area," Tucker said.

The candidate added he was aware that members of the chamber have served on the City Redevelopment Agency's Project Area Committee, but that the time has come for a more active role.

He suggested "hiring an individual on a full-time basis to make redevelopment a reality."

Tucker's remarks brought an angry response from the chamber's general manager, Peter Markovich, who said Tucker probably was not aware that Markovich was meeting Feb. 23 with "six or seven big developers."

He explained later that the San Mateo County Development Council is helping to organize the initial meeting to create interest in Mission Street-Junipero Serra Boulevard investment.

Markovich also said he has worked for 3½ years for redevelopment as a member of the Project Area Committee and it's only recently that the time has come to begin talks with developers.

Candidate Ron Bates told the gathering that his 10½ years of work as a Daly City reporter and editor has given him "an insight into the city's government that no one else has."

Bates said he was "trained to be objective" and commented that would be an asset in council deliberations.

Incumbent Victor Kyriakis told the group he has been a councilman for 5½ years and added "I'm standing on my record because I think it's a good one."

Kyriakis said his efforts in chairing the preferential parking committee, HCDA task force advisory committee and transportation committee have been fruitful for citizens.

O. Edward Salonga, the city's only Filipino-born candidate, said the city "should offer more incentives to businessmen."

Salonga added that the council should create a favorable environment for "business and industries to create more employment for the people."

William J. Schumacher, incumbent councilman, said the city is "moving slowly but moving correctly on redevelopment."
